LAW SCHOOL PLEDGES PART IN JUNIOR WEEK

R. Murray Stewart, Vice President of Law Juniors, Makes Decision

CLASSES WILL COOPERATE
Heated Discussion Friday Night Brought to Close By Agreement of Presidents

"The Law School will support the Junior Week, regardless of who is chairman of the Junior Prom," stated R. Murray Stewart, Vice President of the Junior Law Class, at a meeting of the presidents of the various Junior Classes held Friday evening, December 14th. After a hot and lengthy discussion, lasting two hours, the Law Class finally renounced the position they had previously taken, and pledged themselves to support the plans for Junior Week.

This action was, no doubt, prompted by a resolution passed by the Law School Senate on December 11th, in regard to the controversy between the President of the Junior Law Class and the other Junior Class presidents.

The meeting of the Junior presidents was called to order by Bryan Morse, who stated that "the purpose of this meeting is to continue the work on the plans for Junior Week, and to satisfy all interests, for the good of the University. It would be a very pitiable thing if the Junior Law Class could not agree upon some terms whereby they would join in with the others in holding one Junior Week. The best interests of the University must be served, and this must be the best Junior Week we have ever held."

Hammond Reviews Work

Mead Hammond, of the Engineering College, then spoke to the members, and gave a thorough review of the whole proceedings of the two former meetings of the Junior presidents, of the selection of the chairman of the different committees, and the action taken by the Law School President. Hammond claimed that the statements made by the Law presidents were not true and that "no steam roller politics were used. They went there with but one interest in view, and that was to make a concerted effort to hold the best Junior Week that has ever been put on at the University."

R. Murray Stewart then outlined the matter as taken up by the members of the Law School. He said that the lawyers felt that since they subsidized other portions of the University, and that because the men at the Law School were generally older and more mature than those at the Columbian College, the Law School should have some representation in the matter of Junior Week. He said, "If the Law School is given the chairmanship of the Junior Prom, I am sure it would be willing to join in with Columbian College, if Columbian College would be willing to join in with it, in putting over the week. We represent a fair number of students in Junior Classes throughout the University, and I feel that we are making a reasonable request. We desire, have asked for, and hope to receive the chairmanship of the Junior Prom Committee. If we do not get it, we have appointed members of our own committees and will hold our own Prom."

Stewart States Law Position.

This statement was discussed and argued at great length by the members, but all seemed to be unable to reach a satisfactory compromise on it. Hammond stated, "If they are out for the principle and not for personal gain they should be satisfied with the decision that the chairmanship will rotate." Director Morse then stated that it was apparent that a deadlock had been reached, and he suggested that, as recommended in the resolution of the Law School Senate, the matter be proposed to a committee for arbitration. Stewart made a motion that the matter should be submitted to a committee consisting of one member of the Law School faculty, to be selected by the students; one member of Columbian College faculty, to be selected by the other four class presidents; and a third member, not connected with the University, to be chosen by the two. This motion failed because no one seconded it. Hammond then made a motion that the committee consist of one member of the faculty from each of the departments, each one to be chosen by the dean of each department. Stewart proposed that since they would not concede the Law School the chairmanship of the Prom Committee, that they be given the chairmanship of the

HOLD ASSEMBLY FRIDAY

President Lewis announces that a special assembly will be held next Friday, at which all the new University songs will be practiced, and a ballot taken to determine which will win the Lerner prize. A special Christmas program will also be given.

FIRST TRY-OUTS FOR MEN'S DEBATING TEAM ARRANGED

Meets With Swarthmore, Penn State, and Pittsburgh Arranged—Others Contemplated

Professor C. S. Collier, coach of debate, announces that the first trials for the men's debating team of George Washington University will be held Thursday, December 20, 8 p. m., at the Law School, 1435 K Street. The subject will be, "Resolved, That the courts be deprived of the power to declare Federal and State statutes unconstitutional." Five minute speeches will be expected.

This subject, with the probable exclusion of State statutes, will be that to be debated in at least one of the intercollegiate debates. These are to be with Swarthmore, Pennsylvania State, and Pittsburgh. Negotiations are being carried on now for forensic contests with Johns Hopkins University and the University of Maryland. A contract with North Carolina University presupposes a debate there also.

If between thirty and forty able men try out, it is unlikely that more competitions for the men's team will be held. It is likely that three groups will be chosen to debate three sets of institutions. There will probably be an affirmative and a negative team for each question. The men's group may be divided so as to debate its opponents here on one side of the question, and their opponents on the enemy's floor on the other side, both the same night. This is the plan for the girls' debate with Swarthmore.

The victory in the international debate with Oxford University has set George Washington University in the front rank in debate among Eastern colleges. Whether she will remain there to forge still farther ahead depends on the response of her students to coming contests.

G. W. PLAYERS PRESENT THREE ONE ACT PLAYS

Phi Mu Prize Play Among Those Given—Many Students Attend

Many students and their friends attended the presentation of the George Washington Players Friday night in Lisner Hall. The program consisted of three one act plays, and from the quality of the cast the G. W. Players may hope for many successes this year.

The first was "Loving George," adopted from the story by P. G. Woodhouse, written and directed by Professor Morse. Then came "Three Pills in a Box," written by Richard Fields and directed by Eugenia Ambrosi. The last and most amusing of the three was the Phi Mu prize play of 1923, entitled "A Ghost of a Chance." This was written and directed by Beatrice Henning.

ENGINEERS HEAR FELLOWS

At the last meeting of the Engineering Society, W. H. Fellows addressed the gathering on the subject of "The Relation of a Public Utility to a Consumer." He gave an interesting description of how the work of the Public Utility Commission influenced the relation with the public. He also discussed the subject of testing meters, giving the coming engineers many valuable points on the commercial phase of this piece of equipment.

KEYS MUST BE LEFT

Lock hooks have been provided in the University buildings to prevent theft of coats and hats while students are in their class rooms. If the key is taken from the lock, it makes it necessary for someone to leave his coat unlocked.

All students are urged to cooperate in this safety measure.

ATTEND HISTORICAL MEETING

Secretary Elmer L. Kayser will attend the meeting of the American Historical Society in Columbus during the Christmas recess.

MATCH BETWEEN URBAN UNIVERSITIES PLANNED

To Be Shot During the Early Part of March on the Home Ranges

19 INSTITUTIONS INVITED

G. W. Plans Competition Between Educational Organizations That Have Like Problems

Under the leadership of George Washington a rifle competition for the championship of the Association of Urban Universities has been proposed.

The Director of Student Activities, Bryan Morse, has been pondering for some time the feasibility of competitions of all kinds between the members of the Association of Urban Universities, of which G. W. recently became a member. It is his idea that the difficulties, limitations, and problems of the members of this association are similar, and, therefore, competitions between them would be exceedingly interesting.

The manager of the Male Rifle Team, H. C. Espey, has written the other members of the association, proposing the match and suggesting conditions. The members of this association, other than G. W., are as follows: Boston University, Buffalo University, Case School of Applied Science, Drexel Institute, Denver University, City College of New York, Johns Hopkins University, Louisville University, Hunter College, Municipal University of Akron, University of Cincinnati, Toledo University, Temple University, New York University, University of Pittsburgh, Washington University, Vanderbilt University, and Toronto University.

Manager Espey has arranged for the National Rifle Association to officiate in the match. They heartily endorse the proposition and have promised to do all in their power to advance it.

Under the proposed conditions, the match will be fired on the home ranges of the participants under supervision of faculty representatives during the two-week period ending March 29, 1924.

The positions will be standing, kneeling, sitting, and prone, according to the N. R. A. regulations. Ten shots for record will be fired in each position. However, if it appears to be the consensus of opinion that prone shooting only would be preferable, the conditions probably will be modified.

The invitations suggest that each team upon entering, deposit a fee, which may be agreed upon, to be used in the purchase of a suitable trophy to go permanently to the winning team for the "Rifle Team Championship of the Association of Urban Universities, 1923-1924," and, if possible, suitable medals to the members of the winning team, or another trophy for the second place team, or both.

LEWIS DISAPPROVES UNSIGNED SOUR GRAPES

"An anonymous communication does not justify a reply. The door of the President's office is always open to any one who has constructive criticisms and suggestions to make; to any one who has the courage of his convictions. The work and the record of the University is an open book; the record is one of steady advance," stated President Lewis, in regard to Sour Grapes, the anonymous publication which appeared on the campus last Wednesday, and which contained attacks on practically every department and organization in the University.

MEMORIAL FUND SWELLS

The Harding Memorial Fund was increased by one hundred and sixteen dollars by contributions from the Arts and Sciences Department. Contributions were received at classes and lectures. As only small contributions were asked for, the fund received would indicate that over a thousand students donated to the fund.

GRIGGS TO REPRESENT G. W.

Prof. Robert F. Griggs will represent G. W. at the association of university professors to be held at Columbus during the holidays.

The next issue of The Hatchet will appear Tuesday, January 8, 1924. Copy for this issue must be in the Hatchet office, Saturday, January 5.

STAFF TO DANCE

The Hatchet Staff will have a dance at the Kappa Tau Omega House, 1734 K Street N. W., on Saturday, January 5. The journalists are planning a great time. Tickets may be secured from any of the Associate Editors.

PHILIPPINE INDEPENDENCE FORMS DEBATING SUBJECT

Affirmative, Urging Complete Independence by 1925, Wins in Columbian Debate

That the policy laid down by McKinley, "The Philippines are not ours to exploit, but to civilize, to educate, and to organize," has fructified was the burden of the argument of the affirmative in the debate, held December 14, at the meeting of the Columbian Society, "Resolved, That the United States should grant complete independence to the Philippines by 1925," was the question. The affirmative, J. R. Bromell and I. J. Mendelson, won unanimously. In addition, Bromell was elected best speaker, and Meador Wright, of the negative, second best.

The affirmative based its argument on the promise by America in the Jones Bill, 1915, to grant the Philippines independence as soon as they had acquired a stable government. Statistics and authorities were quoted to prove the possession by the Philippines of the requisites of a stable government: Law, order, finances, and an efficient educational system. Mildred Wilgus, of the negative, argued the need of protection from foreign aggression by the Philippines and also that of American business interests there. Wright made the point of the latest official statement, the Woods-Forbes report of 1921, proving the lack of popular confidence in the government, and lack of an efficacious economic organization.

An innovation in the society will be an all night debate, December 21 at 8, on "Resolved, That the German government be declared a bankrupt and an international commission be appointed to administer its financial affairs."

Plans are being made for the society banquet, to be in January. Society members are urged to have their pictures taken immediately for the Cherry Tree.

PI DELTA EPSILON ADMITS SIX AT MEETING DEC. 6

Robert W. Woward, G. Wilfred Pryor, and Henry James Among Neophytes

Pi Delta Epsilon, the Honorary Journalistic Fraternity of G. W., at a meeting held Thursday, December 6, the following men were pledged for their work on student publications: Robert W. Howard, George Wilfred Pryor, Eugene Thomas, Henry H. James, Fred Youngman, and Arthur Perry.

Robert W. Howard, G. Wilfred Pryor, and Fred Youngman have been active members of the reporting staff of The Hatchet for two years, and Henry James has been a member of the business staff of The Hatchet for two years.

Eugene Thomas was elected editor of The Hatchet in 1922, but resigned from the post and is now the managing editor of the Cherry Tree. Arthur Perry is also one of the active members of the Cherry Tree staff.

Membership to the fraternity is limited to students who have been active on school publications for at least two years, and who have shown unusual interest and ability in the field of student activities.

MEDICAL SOCIETY MEETS

The George Washington Medical Society met in the Medical School, Saturday, December 15. Dr. J. A. Reed spoke on diabetes cases at the University Hospital. He was followed by Dr. C. D. Easton on the insulin treatment of diabetes, and Dr. F. Spidel on the ocular complications of the same disease. A discussion by Doctor Mallory and a smoker completed the program.

HERE'S BAD NEWS

Examinations will start Monday, January 21, continuing through to Saturday, January 26.

DREAMS OF G. W. U. WILL SOON COME TRUE

Ground Is Broken for First Unit of New University Structure

WORK WILL BEGIN TODAY

Claude W. Owen and E. J. Henning Are Speakers at the Ceremony

The dream of George Washington University faculty and students for many years past is soon to become a reality.

A short ceremony, presided over by William Mather Lewis, President of the University, was held yesterday at noon, when ground was broken for the first unit in the greater George Washington University. The ceremony was attended by University officials, faculty, and students. Invitations were sent to presidents and officials of the large civic and other organizations of Washington.

President Lewis, in a short opening talk, explained the background of the history and progress of the University, and added that "this day marks the actual start towards the development of one of the finest city university plants in the United States."

Claude W. Owen, a former George Washington student, chairman of the association of civic organizations of the city, and an active leader in civic enterprises spoke of the great opportunities for service such an institution may have. He emphasized the importance of the University to the civic interests of Washington, and stated that it is an enterprise in which all Washington has a great pride.

Hon. E. J. Henning, Assistant Secretary of Labor, also spoke of the importance of a great educational institution for serving the needs of our National Capital. An added interest was given to the ceremony when George Washington students sang several of the new University songs.

After the exercises a buffet luncheon, prepared by the young ladies in the Domestic Science Department, was served to the guests and other who attended.

Excavations for the new building will start today. The first unit is to be located on Twenty-first Street, between G and H. The next unit will be built from the corner of Twenty-first and H Streets, extending toward Twentieth Street. When completed, the building will be a four-story structure of the colonial type, and will occupy the entire square bounded by Twentieth Street, G Street, Twenty-first Street, and H Street. Every effort has been made to plan a building with class rooms and laboratories, located with the greatest convenience for faculty and students.

G. W. CALENDARS ON SALE

G. W. Calendars have been placed on sale in the office of Bryan Morse, Director of Student Activities, at the treasurer's office, 2023 G Street, and in the offices of the Law and Medical Schools. They contain pictures of George Washington as it will be when the new buildings are completed, of the varsity teams, and of the Student Council. Beautifully decorated covers add to the attraction of the calendars and suggest a delightful Christmas present for any student of the University. The price is one dollar.

VOTE TAKEN ON BEST SONG

The students at Chapel meetings last week voted on which one of the six songs selected as the best of those submitted should be the winner of the $50 prize. The result of the contest will be announced at Chapel, Friday, December 21.

LEWIS ADDRESSES S. A. R.

President Lewis will speak to the Sons of the American Revolution tomorrow night.

TO ATTEND LANGUAGE CONFAB

Prof. Henry G. Doyle will attend the meetings of the Modern Language Association at Ann Arbor, Mich., during the holidays.

TO PLAN STUDENT DRIVE

Henry James, chairman of the student committee, aiding in the drive for the University endowment campaign, will outline plans to students at a meeting at Lisner Hall, Friday night, at 8 o'clock.

ENCOURAGING

Over seven hundred students have taken part in different activities according to figures recently given out by the director. This is a good sign, especially when one considers the increase in the number taking part over the same figure for three or four years ago.

But when one takes this figure and compares it to the total enrollment it pales into partial insignificance. Many more than seven hundred out of forty-eight hundred should take part in the activities.

Of course, a large percentage of the total enrollment would not care to, or would be unable to take part due to working or other outside interests. Yet it seems clear that the encouraging figure of over seven hundred could be boosted to double or perhaps triple that number if inter-class athletic contests, a literary magazine were added to the other activities and the Ghost was brought back to life.

However, all of this will remain only a dream until the compulsory activity fee is put into effect. With the fee, athletic fields and the necessary gyms could be provided for the intra-mural sports and proper facilities and financial support could be provided for the literary in the bringing back the now present defunct Ghost and the establishing of a magazine devoted solely to literary endeavors.

The development that the student receives from these activities forms a large part of the college education. Shall many be denied this opportunity because of lack of facilities due to failure of having a compulsory activity fee?

SEASON'S GREETINGS

Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year to the President, Trustees, Faculties, and students of George Washington University. May the coming year see the success of the building and endowment drive which is necessary for the realization of the Greater George Washington University. And may the new year see a bigger and better student activities with proper financial support and a group of leaders that are real leaders.

THE URBAN LEAGUE

George Washington University has recently joined the Urban University League. The institutions that belong to the league are all subject to the same problems and difficulties that G. W. is. They, too, have a large part of their enrollment attending classes in the late afternoon, who have a large part of their time taken up in employment.

Due to these reasons it has been felt that athletic relations with these colleges would be advantageous to the Buff and Blue.

For the present, playing universities in our own class is the best method for the athletic interest of the University to follow. The first to play others in this league is the rifle team, and the result of this competition will be watched with interest by the other athletic teams.

STUDENT ENDEAVOR

Interest in inter-class athletics is being aroused among the students by the G. W. Club. It is the plan of the club to foster an inter-class or inter-organization track and field meet in the spring.

This should be a big success for the field meet staged by the Interfraternity Association some two years ago was a success, as has been the basketball tournament staged every winter.

Besides getting together in an athletic way, the different organizations, with great talent available, could put on a vaudeville show. With proper direction and support this would be a huge success.

Anything that will bring the students together in an athletic or social way will succeed, and should be encouraged. Let's have an inter-class meet and an inter-organization vaudeville show next spring.

BASKETBALL

Last year George Washington University made a creditable showing in basketball. Although she won but four of her fifteen games, it must be borne in mind that they were played against some of the most formidable teams in the East. Fordham University, one of the "big six," was held to a 29-23 score. Virginia University, V. M. I., and Washington and Lee were among the others who encountered stiff opposition from the Hatchetites. This fight was put up notwithstanding that facilities were inadequate, and practice places were uncertain.

This season the University has secured the Coliseum as a floor for both games and practice. A number of the old men are back. Able new men are expected to report. The aggregation that will battle in varsity games will have the advantage of fighting for the most part on home grounds. Seven of the games will be held at the Coliseum, four on other floors in Washington, and only two outside of the city.

The manager of the team and the faculty backers of athletics have done their part in making dates, places, and teams as convenient and attractive as possible for players and spectators. The success of the season remains in the hands of the students. They must needs recognize the opportunity for development of alertness and muscle in playing, or the joy and thrill of cheering on the side lines. They must know that the school's reputation and prestige are won on the court as much as anywhere else. Now, will they back the team by coming out to practice and to the games, and thus swing into the program of the Greater G. W. U.?

REAL SPORTSMANSHIP

The Junior Law Class is to be commended on making a decision to join with the rest of the University in one big Junior Week program. The principle for which they stood was just, and they may be assured that the Junior presidents of next year's classes will consider their fight of this year, and rotate the chairmanships of the important committees through the various colleges.

They have shown the real George Washington spirit in co-operating with the other Junior classes, and we want to see them all get together and put over a Junior Week such as was never had before. At this time no undertaking should be started that would not reflect the highest credit on the University as a whole, and we feel that the coming Junior Week will do all of this.

OUR HOPE

Here with six pages is the first indication of that long looked-for day when we could have more space for the "tedious chronicle of affairs" of the University and mayhap be able to put in what is so dear to the heart of every student, Stupid Steve and personals.

Now, if only some brilliant mind is able to invent a front page large enough to contain all of the articles that students asked to have placed there, we will certainly have a very merry Christmas. But, alas, lack, we are afraid that the day the front page, big enough to contain all of the articles is made, will come at the same time that a patent on a perpetual motion machine is granted.

Talk It Over At Home

A Christmas Vacation Suggestion To Seniors

THIS is your last year in college. This is your last Christmas vacation.

Your career after graduation is a question that you will want to talk over with the folks at home. They will be even more interested than you are. Now is the time to do it.

The John Hancock has in its field organization producers who began as life insurance men immediately after graduation and have made a conspicuous success of it.

Why waste time trying out something else which looks "just as good" and then come into the life insurance work to compete with the man who got into the game from the start?

Talk it over at home and remember that you can get information and helpful advice by addressing

WEDDEL PRIZE OFFERED FOR BEST PEACE ESSAY

$250 Given For Best Essay on "Promoting Peace Among the Nations of the World."

The Alexander Wilbourne Weddell prize of $250 will be awarded to that student registered for a degree who submits the best essay of not less than 10,000 words on "The Promotion of Peace Among the Nations of the World." The prize is offered annually from a fund established by Mrs. Virginia Chase Weddell.

The essays must be submitted by May 1, and should include a table of contents, footnotes, and bibliography. In reaching a decision, the committee composed of Charles C. Collier, Oscar B. Hunter, and Charles E. Hill, will consider research, accuracy, and originality, together with clearness of expression and literary form. The committee reserves the right to withhold the award if no essay attaining the required degree of excellence is submitted.

The topics suggested for this year are:

1. The attitude of the United States toward the treaty of Versailles.
2. The opium traffic.
3. What has the Permanent Court of International Justice Accomplished?
4. The work of the Council of the League of Nations.
5. Litigation between the States of the United States as a source of international law.
6. Weakness in our present health examination of immigrants.

These topics may be modified with the approval of Charles E. Hill, chairman of the essay committee.

ALCHEMIST SOCIETY HOLDS BANQUET AT CAIRO HOTEL

The Alchemist Society (Chemical), George Washington University, held its first affair of the year in the form of a banquet, at the Cairo Hotel, on the evening of December 12th. Approximately thirty-five members of the organization were present, including several of the founders who established the George Washington chapter in 1901.

Professor George Phillips and Professor Paul Brattain, both members of the Alchemist Society, were the speakers of the evening. The history of the society, its purposes, and the principles for which it stands, were reviewed, a great deal of entertainment being furnished by the "mechanical inclinations" of the speakers.

The guiding spirit of the Alchemists is a "Grand Kopt," who each year terrorizes the neophytes of the society by sending them out to search for the secrets of Alchemy. For these secrets, contained in a vase, were lost in a terrific sandstorm on the Sahara Desert many years ago. As yet they have not been recovered by the diligent searchers, but hope is not lost and a fresh effort is made each year.

MUST REGISTER

All students expecting to graduate in February must file their applications in the registrar's office by February 1. Notices are now being sent out to those who have completed requirements, and are urged to attend to this immediately.

CANE RUSH IS NEARLY FORGOTTEN BY SOPHS

Beautiful "Freshman Stetsons" have been lying dormant for the last few weeks on the shelves of the closets. The only hazing of any consequence which has been going on recently has been the annual hazing of the fraternity goats. And all because the scheduled cane rush, which student leaders thought would go over with a bang, came on a rainy day, and both Freshmen and Sophomores stayed home.

Three Freshmen, H. Togo Mathews, Lew Sharpnack, and Joseph T. Caples, were on the Monument Grounds at the scheduled time, so they claim that the frosh won by default. Not even big Bill Olson, or battle-scarred Frank Clements, the presidents of the contending classes, were on hand.

Close on the heels of this came the announcement that Clements and his formidable Sophomore Class had formed a "Ball and Chain Club" for the promotion of class spirit, and the thing is still being talked up, but evidently even this praiseworthy organization went the way of all flesh.

GIRL DEBATERS TO HAVE TRYOUTS ON JANUARY 5

"Resolved, That the United States should adopt the international protocol establishing a world court," will be the question for the girls' debating tryouts on January 5, 1924. The contest will be held in the Chapel.

Five-minute speeches are expected and either side of the subject may be chosen by the participant.

Kathleen Duggan, manager, has contracted a duel debate with Swathmore, and is communicating with many other colleges in this vicinity with an endeavor of obtaining several debates for this year. Everything looks toward a bright future for the girls' varsity debating teams for this season, and it is urged that the girls show their interest by appearing at the tryouts with five-minute speeches prepared.

MIMES TO PRESENT THREE ONE-ACT PLAYS THURSDAY

The Mimes, dramatic organization of George Washington University, will present three one-act plays Thursday, December 20th, in the Chapel at eight p. m.

The plays to be given are "Another Way Out," by Lawrence Langer, and directed by Foster Hagen; "Waterloo," written and directed by Leonard Hall, dramatic critic of the Washington News; and "Two on a Park Bench," written and directed by Professor Morse.

Members of the faculty and distinguished dramatic critics have been invited to attend the performance.

Admission is by card only.

FREE LANCE HAS SPEAKERS

Dr. Paul Blanchard, of the University of Michigan, addressed the Free Lance Club Thursday night, December 13, on "The Challenge of Labor to the College Man and Woman."

Carl C. Magee, of Albuquerque, N. M., editor and writer, addressed the society the evening of December 6, on the freedom of the press in New Mexico. He told of the struggle he had with the Fall-Sinclair interests, which culminated in an 18-months penitentiary sentence for libel, and two years in jail and a fine of $3,000 for contempt of court, which were imposed upon him, and from which he was pardoned. Mr. Magee has been touring the East, making speeches, and recently appeared before the Congressional committee investigating the Teapot Dome Oil reserve.

BALL AND CHAIN ELETS

At a meeting of the Ball and Chain Club last Wednesday the following officers were elected: President, Jack Hayes; vice president, Randall Buckingham; secretary, Clayton Langer; sergeant-at-arms, Elmer Myers.

Plans for the annual Freshman Sophomore tug-of-war are being arranged by the club, and announcement of the date will be made later.

HOCKEY MGR. WANTED

The position of manager of Girls' Hockey is now open. Any girl interested in applying should send her application to the chairman of the Student Council Athletic Committee.

At the last meeting of the Student Council, Girls' Hockey was made a minor sport.

ENGINEERS TO MEET

A meeting of the proposed Student Branch of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers will be held on Wednesday, December 19, in Room 21, Building 4, at 7 p. m. In order to make this organization a success all Mechanical Engineers are urged to attend.

CHEMICAL SOCIETY WILL HEAR HELIUM LECTURE

Said to Be Finest Scientific Lectures to Come to University this Year

Dr. L. I. Shaw, of the Bureau of Mines, will be the speaker of the evening at the next meeting of the George Washington Chemical Society, December 19. He will give a lecture on helium. Stereopticon views and other apparatus, which is said to comprise one of the finest scientific lectures to come to the University this year. The lecture has been given all over the United States, before many large audiences.

The process of fractional distillation of this rare gas from the crude oil of Texas fields will be discussed by Dr. Shaw. Helium is at present the gas chiefly in use for filling the large Zeppelins, being nearly as light as hydrogen, and non-inflammable as well as chemically inert. The Shenandoah is among the big balloons filled with helium.

Helium also is placed in an interesting light, as it is becoming constantly more in demand, and as it is one of the decomposition products of radium, it is an interesting subject for researches. Dr. Shaw, being with the Government, has done much research on this subject and a very interesting lecture is promised.

R. M. Hann, former president of the Chemical Society, will give the student paper, competing for the medal offered by the society this year. The Chi Sigma Gamma sorority will furnish refreshments.

Among other speakers who will appear at meetings of the society this year are Dr. S. C. Lind, of the Bureau of Mines; Dr. Charles E. Sando, of the Bureau of Plant Industry; and G. W. Vinal, of the Bureau of Standards. April 23, 1924, will be "stunt night."

The Chemical Society is conducting a drive for membership, and all chemists or chemical engineers of the University may join on payment of $1.25. Members of the membership committee who have cards are: Hugh Riley, Marie O'Dea, Sherman E. Johnson, Joseph Fahey, Noles Berryman, and Vera Bailey.

The Chemical Mixer, the big social event of chemists for the year, will be held Monday night, December 17, in Lisner Hall. Bailey Nichols' orchestra will furnish music.

To those Men—who demand distinction and conservative individuality in their clothes, Famous DUNSHIRE Clothing makes an instant appeal.

In the soft front of the coat, the narrow lapels and the straight sleeves—in the broad shoulders and loosely draped back; in the high cut vest and full, wide trousers; and in the flat, English collar—in all these details lies the secret of the smartness of DUNSHIRE Clothes.

Through their very simplicity, DUNSHIRE Clothes achieve that air of quiet smartness demanded by the well-groomed man.

ALUMNI NOTES

John B. Lerner, '79, presided, in his usual way, at the installation of William Mather Lewis, as President of the University. Mr. Lerner, as chairman of the Board of Trustees, has given long and valuable service to the University.

Howard Lincoln Hodgkins, popular Dean of the University and acting president in various times of emergency, gave an address of welcome on behalf of the faculty, at the same inaugural ceremonies.

Samuel Herrick, '04, genial president of the General Alumni Association, gave greetings from the Alumni to the new President of the University, on the same occasion. Mr. Herrick has recently moved into new and commodious law offices at 1623 H Street.

Percival Hall, M. A., '98, Litt. D. (Hon.), '14; President of Gallaudet College (the only college for the deaf in the world), was a delegate in the long procession that took part in the inauguration. It would be interesting to know whether there were any others of our Alumni who were present on that occasion, as president of other institutions.

Harry C. Davis, '78, made the speech of presentation, when the portrait of Dean Hodgkins was given to the University at the fall convocation. Mr. Davis, as always, was very happy in his remarks.

William Ewart Hobbs, Ph. D., '20, is treasurer of the Wilbur Portrait Fund, and would be glad to have subscriptions sent to him, at his address, 2111 Eighteenth Street N. W., Washington, D. C.

Elizabeth Wilson, '17, is proving a most efficient and gracious President of the Columbian Women. Under her guidance, that organization recently presented the first check toward the new endowment fund of the University, a check for five hundred dollars, by the way. Miss Wilson is teaching in Central High School again, after a leave of absence spent in study at Radcliffe College.

Mrs. Gladys Ames Brannigan, '04, recently sent a very generous check to the Wilbur Portrait Fund. Mrs. Brannigan is a very successful artist, with a studio at 242 West Fifty-sixth Street, New York City. "Who's Who in Art" mentions her as a member of the National Association of Women Painters and Sculptors, Pen and Brush, and other organizations.

Amy Thompson, also '04, is a deaconess in New York City, and lives with her great friend, Mrs. Brannigan, just mentioned.

Mrs. Augusta Freeman Young, M. A., '20, has recently become a member of the American Association of University Women, here in Washington. It is pleasant to know that more and more of the George Washington Alumnae are uniting with this splendid society. Mrs. Young, whose husband, Hon. George M. Young, is a Member of Congress from North Dakota, has recently completed her term of office as treasurer of the Congressional Club. That she takes a keen interest in all the affairs of the University, is shown by her being one of the first and most generous subscribers to the Dean Wilbur Portrait Fund.

Harry E. Hennemann, LL. B., '17, has a responsible position in New York City, where he is chief inspector of the National City Bank. He lives in Brooklyn.

Philander Betts, 3d, E. E., '3; Ph. D., '14, has been Chief Engineer of the Public Utility Commission of New Jersey since 1910. He was a colonel of Engineers during the war, and has compiled and edited the historical records of War Department construction in this country, a very valuable work.

Alvin Todd Burrows, B. S., '03, is editor of the Urbana Courier, in Urbana, Ill.
Note: The compiler of these Alumni items will be very grateful for any recent news of our former students. We want to get in touch with each other in a personal way, so won't you please send any information you may have of your friends of old college days, to (Miss) Elizabeth Peet, '18, Apt. 205, Somerset House, 1801 Sixteenth Street, Washington, D. C.

EXCHANGES

New York University has issued the first number of a literary magazine, called "The Arch." It has been very favorably received by the students.

The Freshmen at the University of Kentucky have set a quota of $40,000, to be raised during their four years at college. This sum will be used to pay for a new basketball building.

Bridge is a new fraternity sport at the University of Iowa. A nine-weeks' tournament will be held, and a trophy presented at the end of that time.

Valparaiso has established a new department called the "College of Economic and Cultural Arts," in which all students will be made self-supporting through the sale of articles made by them in the various shops.

The smallest college in the United States is said to be Highland College, of Highland, Kansas, which has an attendance of 20 students.

"The Fraternity Campus Board" was recently organized at Columbia. This board is composed of representatives from the various fraternities and is to act as an advisory body to the student government organization.

STUDY OF SPANISH OBJECT OF EL CIRCULO ESPANOL

Continued interest in the Spanish language lead to the formation of a Spanish Club at George Washington University, which is now entering the fourth year of its existence, and which will shortly elect its officers.

El Circulo Espanol has for its purpose the encouragement of the study of Spanish language and literature, and the formation of an acquaintance with Spanish customs and people. Semimonthly meetings are held, at which various speakers, many from the embassies and legations, present topics of general interest to all. Social affairs are also listed in the year's calendar.

The organization has the support of, and is aided by, an advisory committee, consisting of Prof. H. G. Doyle and of the instructors of Spanish.

Through affiliation with the Instituto de las Espanas, an international organization, El Circulo Espanol is enabled to offer annually a bronze medal for the best essay dealing with some phase of the life or works of Cervantes.

SORORITY ENTERTAINS

Phi Lambda Mu held a luncheon for a number of Freshmen girls on Saturday, December 15th, at the rooms of the sorority, 2022 G Street.

PAN HELLENIC COUNCIL GOVERNS GREEK CO-EDS

Pan Hellenic Council was established in George Washington University as an advisory body, and to promote a friendly feeling among the sororities represented in the council. The council has been in existence for more than fifteen years, and represents practically every sorority in the University. Such sororities as have national charters are by that fact entitled to representation; local sororities petition membership, the basic requirements being that the sorority shall have been in existence for one year, and be recognized by the University. Its meetings are held every two weeks at Lisner Hall, and are presided over by a chairman, the chairman for the present being Helen Stoutameyer, of Alpha Delta Pi.

The officers of the council are not elective, but rotate among the sororities represented according to the order in which they were established, the oldest in seniority, and the senior representative of that sorority being chairman the first year.

The council wields no power, and its measures to be effective must be unanimous, but representation is, nevertheless, covered and indicative of a certain standing and recognition in the school.

During the past year the following sororities were represented in Pan Hellenic Council: Pi Beta Phi, Chi Omega, Sigma Kappa, Phi Mu, Alpha Delta Pi, Delta Zeta, Kappa Delta, Gamma Beta Pi, Gamma Delta Rho, Phi Sigma.

WILLIAM A. QUIGLEY WILL NOT BE COACH

Different Plans Contemplated for Next Fall. Causes Change—Successor Not Intimated.

William A. Quigley, for the past three seasons coach of the Hatchette eleven, will not direct the 1924 Buff and Blue warriors, according to statement of the chairman of the board of managers issued yesterday.

Because both Quigley and the University authorities have made other plans for the fall of 1924 was given as the reason for the change. The plans that the athletic authorities are considering was not intimated. Whether a successor for Quigley is at present being contemplated was not divulged.

COUNCIL AWARDS LETTERS AND GOLD FOOTBALLS

Special Meeting Necessary Because of Lack of Attendance—Social Functions Discussed

A special meeting of the Student Council was held Monday, December 10. Matters were taken up which were not discussed at the last meeting because only two members of the council were present.

Nine gold footballs and fourteen letters were awarded to members of the football squad. Those to receive gold footballs are: Allen, Hottel, Clements, Laux, Griffin, Captain Ptk, Manager Ladd, and Coaches Quigley and Brewer. Those to receive letters are: Dowd, Fletcher, Goldman, Henderson, Ketcham, Lackey, Lamar, Leeb, Loeb, J. McLain, G. McLain, B. Miller, E. Miller, and Sawyer. It is the intention of the council to make the presentations at the annual Football Hop, which is to be held in the near future.

A resolution was passed promising to the University officials the closest cooperation of the council in the matter of regulating conditions at the undergraduate social functions. It is the intention of the council to eliminate certain undesirable features which have been present at student affairs earlier in the year.

PLAN INTER-CLASS MEET

An inter-class track meet, to be held next spring, was discussed at the meeting of the G. W. Club, December 12. The club appointed Turner, former manager of track, Laux, Clements, Thomas, and Tolson as a committee to make arrangements for the meet.

The meeting also adapted as the emblem of the club a key having the letters "G W" on a blue background. The Student Council was asked to elect cheer leaders for the inter-class contests, and a resolution was adapted to form a cheering section.

GREEK TEAMS MEET

Several important skirmishes have been staged in the Greek basketball war lately. Phi Sigma Kappa's superior team work proved the downfall of Kappa Alpha to a 18 to 7 tune, with Crosswaite and Simmons doing great work for the Phi Sigs, while Red Williams was the big gun of the K. A.'s.

Friday night, S. P. E. walloped Kappa Sigma 16 to 8 in a very rough contest, while Theta Delta Chi came from behind to beat Sigma Nu 15-10. Beeton starred for the Theta Deltas and Brumbaugh also played well.

KENTUCKY GIRL WINS PRIZE PEARSON HOLDS

Miss Dorothy Louise Roberts, pretty, young high school girl of Harlan, Kentucky, is the winner of this year's Firestone University scholarship, amounting to $4,000. Last year Karl G. Pearson, of Lindsborg, Kans., then attending Eastern High School, and editor of "The Easterner," high school publication there, was the winner.

This year, Pearson, a George Washington University student, is on the Hatchet staff, and is also a member of the Columbian Debating Society, and quite prominent in student activities.

On December 8, 1923, Dorothy Manning entertained the Phi Sigma girls and their friends at a dance at her home, 2701 Fessenden Street.

On December 9, 1923, Helen Clark entertained the Phi Sigma girls at a supper at her home, 1759 Columbia Road.

Miss Helen Periam entertained at luncheon at the White Peacock Tea House, Saturday, in honor of Dean Anna L. Rose and Miss Linda Jane Kincannon.

TRACK PROSPECTS SHOW PROMISING MATERIAL

Squad Starts Work—Coach Proby Confident of Great Results—Strong Relay Team Expected

Indoor training of the Track Squad is now under way and Coach Proby states that he is confident a good, well-balanced team will be developed this year. Over twenty men are now training for the indoor meets three evenings a week at the "Y," and a squad of over forty is expected for the outdoor training which will begin in March.

Simmons, Tolson, Peake, and Grass form a nucleus around which a mile relay team will be developed to represent G. W. in various meets including the Penn Relays. A two-mile relay team will doubtless be selected also, as several quarter and half-milers have reported. These teams are selected in time-trial competition and every man on the squad is given a chance to "make" them. Several men have also reported for the sprints and distance events, and a number are undergoing preliminary work for outdoor field events.

Additional interest in track is noticeable this year, due, in a measure, no doubt, to the discussion among the students favoring an Interclass Field and Track Meet, to be held next spring at the Central Stadium or on the new athletic field being constructed by the University. Such a meet is endorsed by Coach Proby and the Track Squad, who believe that interclass competition of this nature would develop interest in school affairs as well as bring out additional material for the outdoor squad.

CLASSES WILL HOLD TUG OF WAR FRIDAY

Olson and Clements Will Lead Classes in Battle on the Monument Grounds.

After many delays the scheduled tug of war between the Freshmen and Sophomores will be held Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock, at the Washington Monument Grounds. Sides have been limited to fifty each, and Franklin Clements and Bill Olson, class presidents, will lead the warriors.

Procedure will be as in the past in this classic scrap. A large fire hose will play at the center of the rope, and the losing class will be pulled through the stream, much to the amusement of onlookers.

SHOOT PERFECT SCORE IN INTERNATIONAL MEET

Girl's rifle team has just completed a match with the rifle club of St. Anne's Diocesan College of Natal, South Africa. The match was shot at fifty feet on standard British half-inch bull's eye targets, and telescopic sights were used. It was the first time these sights were used by the girls, and all scores counted, as only five girls shot. It is therefore considered an exceptional performance that a score of 500 was turned in.

Those girls who participated in the match are: Katherine Edmonston, Sophia Waldman, Edna Kilpatrick, Elenor Barrel, and May Huntzberger. Each turned in a perfect score.

In the spring a match with the Brisbane Rifle Club, of Australia, will be shot.

MANY OUT FOR WINTER SPORTS

Candidates reporting for the winter sports of basketball, swimming, and track number 155 engaged in these activities. Present indications favor a successful season in all these sports.

35 MEN OUT FOR BASKETBALL

Men's basketball, with 35 men out, will be coached by John R. Daily, Captain '22-'23. Clarence Gosnell is this year's captain.

COACH NAMED FOR GIRLS' SPORT

Women's basketball has attracted 40, who will probably be coached by Imogene Stockett.

GIRL SWIMMERS PRACTICE

Girls' Swimming Team practicing at the Y. W. C. A. has F. B. Brunner as coach. B. Woodford is captain. Fifty girls have reported for practice.

The University of California's new million dollar stadium at Berkeley was officially dedicated Saturday, when the Golden Bears defeated the Cardinals from Leland Stanford. The new field is the largest in the West, and has a seating capacity of 72,000.

BASKETEERS IN FINE TRIM FOR CITY CLUB

Dowd, Gosnell, and Klopsch Are Doing Exceptional Work at Practice

Mike Dowd has been the sensation of the strenuous workouts which Coach Johnny Daily has been conducting in the Coliseum every night. Mike, working at floor guard, has been playing an aggressive sterling type of basketball offensively as well as defensively.

The squad has been driven at top speed since the beginning of the practice session and should be in excellent condition when the first whistle blows against the City Club quint January 3.

Offensively, the Hatchettes seem to have some fine material. Captain Gude Gosnell has for two years been a mainstay of the Buff and Blue quint and is bound to be a heavy scorer this season. Otto Klopsch, star forward last year, is in much better shape this year than last and is shooting with deadly accuracy. "Reds" Woerner, forward from last year's Frosh quint is playing in good form and should give a fight for a position. Earl Chesney, crack forward from two years ago, is working out and has been giving the guards a world of trouble. Other forwards are Wagner, a new man, and Vernon Brown, former Frosh forward.

Big Pat Roll seems to have the jump at the pivot position, his superior weight and height giving him a decided advantage over the other candidates. Francis Brown, last year's center is also playing well at the pivot position. Taylor, last year Frosh center, is also out for the position.

In the back court, a merry battle will be waged. Mike Dowd seems to have throttle hold on his position but has some hot competition. "Babe Hyde," that vest-pocket guard of pugilistic tendencies, is playing with his usual aggressiveness. "Hercules" Sawyer has the weight and strength of a first-class guard, and forwards are going to find the going hard against him.

Reynolds, hailing from Missouri, has displayed nice form in the back court in his few workouts. Randolph, Goldberg, Brumbaugh, and Neviasser are among other candidates for guard position.

G. W. RIFLE TEAM DEFEATS JOHNS HOPKINS

The rifle match, Saturday, was won by the G. W. team with a score of 958, against the Hopkins' score of 866, as reported by telegraph.

Walter Stokes' score of 190 and 200 was highest for G. W. The difference in scores 92 points out of a thousand, is so great that it is thought that there may have been error in the telegraphic report.

TRACK MEN TRAIN

Track has started with 30 men out. Practice is held at the Y. M. C. A. Thomas F. Proby is coach and Hilory Tolson is captain. G. W. will meet Georgetown in track on February 21, 1924. A meet with Johns Hopkins is listed for February 23.

MANY TAKE PART

Ten teams, comprising 120 men, are taking part in the Inter-Frat Schedule closing January 1, 1924.

PYRAMID HONORS FIVE IN WINTER ELECTION

Publication, Athletics and Debating Interest Represented—Kayser Named Honorary Member.

L. Scheuffer, J. Joseph W. Palmer, H. O. Allen, and Edwin S. Bettelheim, Jr., were elected to membership in Pyramid Honor Society. Elmer Louis Kayser, secretary of the University, and assistant professor of history, was elected to honorary membership.

Scheuffer, a Senior in the Law School, was a member of the debating team that defeated Oxford and is a member of the Student Council. Palmer last year was editor of the Cherry Tree. He has been art editor of the same publication for three years and a member of the Hatchet staff for the same length of time.

Allen has been the mainstay of the Hatchette line for the past three seasons, being a consistent and faithful worker on the football team. Bettelheim is editor of the 1924 Cherry Tree, and last year was manager of basketball.

Elmer Louis Kayser, besides being quite active in the alumni work and furthering the interests of the University as secretary, was quite prominent in student activities while he was enrolled as an undergraduate.

Membership in Pyramid Honor Society is limited to senior students of good scholastic standing who have achieved noteworthy records in student activities.

MEADOR WRIGHT READS PAPER

Meador Wright last night read a paper on "The Influence of Sex in Modern Literature" before the Enosian Honorary Literary Society.

CHEMICAL MIXER HELD

Many couples attended the Chemical dance at Lisner Hall Chapel last night. The surplus money was turned over to the Chemical Society to help pay for the banquet next spring.

Edmonston Studio will take pictures for the Cherry Tree anytime during the holidays. The management of the yearbook urges all to have their pictures taken as soon as possible.

Officers of the Senior Class will meet to-night to discuss plans for the coming year, according to their president, Hilory A. Tolson.

The Columbia Student's Council in conference with the faculty of the University have decided to exempt honor students in certain courses from examinations. At last the millennium approaches.

ALL OF ASSOCIATION STANDARDS FULFILLED

Prejudice Against Employed Students
Felt to Be Reason for Non-Approval of Law School

When the American Bar Association published its list of approved law schools a short time ago the George Washington Law School was not on the list.

The American Bar Association, early in the year promulgated a certain set of requirements which every law school must have fulfilled in order to be eligible for its list of approved law schools. The requirements set forth by the association are:

1. Students must have had two years of college work to be admitted.
2. The school must have an adequate library.
3. The school must employ a sufficient number of full-time professors.
4. The school must not be a proprietary school.
5. The school must require of its students three full academic years devoted to the study of law, and if there are part-time students, a sufficiently longer time to be the equivalent in working hours.

The requirements for admission to the Law School at present are that a student must have completed 30 semester hours, or one full year of college work, and this requirement will be raised to two full years in 1925.

The library of the Law School is composed of 10,000 volumes, and is being increased steadily. It is one of the best libraries of any law school in this section of the country. The requirement of the Association of American Law Schools, of which the George Washington Law School has been a member ever since the association was founded, in 1900, only requires 5,000 volumes.

Has Seven Full-Time Profs.

The Law School now has seven full-time professors, and ten part-time professors. The Association of American Law Schools requires, for membership, only three full-time professors.

The Law School is not a proprietary school; that is, one run for a money gain, as it is a part of the University.

The last requirement of the American Bar Association is the one upon which there has been some controversy.

A short time after this list of requirements was put into effect, the faculty, in May, passed a rule to meet this last requirement. The rule was that evening students entering the Law School in September could only take ten hours of work a week, but if after being examined on the ten hours of work the student made a grade of "B" he could thereafter take twelve hours of work a week. The result of this rule would have been that all part-time students who did not make a grade of "B" would have had to take four years of work, or six semesters of regular work and three summer sessions, or seven semesters and one summer session; while the students who made a grade of "B" could have completed the course in six semesters and one summer session.

Four Years Required for Employed.

This requirement was forwarded to the American Bar Association, which met in August, and it ruled that the rule was not sufficient, particularly as to the students who made a grade of "B" of their first ten hours of work. A letter from the Bar Association to this effect was received by Dean Van Vleck on September 30th. The next day a faculty meeting was called and the requirement repealed. A new requirement was drafted, to the effect that all students entering the Law School after January 1, 1924, would be required to complete eighty semester hours of work to receive the degree of Bachelor of Laws. This rule requires an evening student to take four academic years, or eight semesters of working to graduate.

At a meeting of the trustees on October 10th, this requirement was passed, and a copy of it was immediately sent to the council of the American Bar Association. A letter was also written to the council explaining the facts about the new requirement, but no reply was received at the Law School. And so when the list of approved law schools was published by the association a short time ago, the George Washington Law School was not listed either in class A or class B of the approved schools. Officials of the Bar Association were immediately communicated with, and they explained that since the last requirement was sent to them the council had not met to consider it, and so the school had not been put on the list. They said, however, that the next meeting of the council would be during the Christmas holiday, and the requirement would be considered at that time. So until the next meeting of the council the school will not know whether they will be put on the approved list or not.

The Dean and the faculty feel that by taking night students and holding them to the high standards of scholarship of the school that it should be considered a virtue of the school rather than as some consider it, a vice. Whatever may be the decision of the American Bar Association in regard to the part-time students, the school conforms to all the requirements of the State Bar Associations throughout the country. As far as is known, the Bar Association makes no objection to any of the requirements except that as to the part-time students, and the faculty are confident that in view of the requirement that is now in effect, there should be no reason why the George Washington Law School should not be put on the approved list of law schools.

G. W. PROFESSOR DIES WHILE SEATED IN CAR

Dr. Earl C. Follett, of Medical School,
Succumbs Suddenly to Heart Attack

Seated in his parked automobile in front of his home, Dr. Earl C. Follett, 30, 1900 H Street N. W., professor of physiology and pharmacology in the Medical School, was found dead Saturday of heart disease. He was found by Prof. James H. Defendorf, and the body was taken to Emergency Hospital.

Dr. Follett has been with George Washington University since 1919, when he came from Bowdoin University Medical School.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Beatrice Follett, who is a former student of the University. Interment will be in Maine, although funeral arrangements have not been completed.

WILBUR TELLS EVOLUTION OF HIS ENGLISH RHETORIC

Took Form Through Application of Certain Sections—Students Respond Heartily.

"My rhetoric took form through application to my classes first of certain sections of chapters, then of chapters, and finally, of the entire book," explained Dean Wilbur. His experience in teaching and his acquaintance with books on rhetoric enabled him to make conclusions on how better to reach classes with the customary rules and definitions of rhetoric. He tried these out on his pupils. They heartily responded. By observation of just what they took to, and what they did not, he drew up a plan of teaching rhetoric which would be pertinent and lasting. Instead of the usual "this means this, and that means that, and that is how you use them," Dean Wilbur told his students the why of things.

Why do you study rhetoric? Why do we become acquainted with Greek words which signify a concerted rhetorical effect? Why do we classify certain figures as we do? These answers are embodied in his book. It aimed to bring in the personal touch that makes things interesting, and it does. And it developed from an "indefinite, incoherent homogeneity to a definite coherent heterogeneity."

Week and the chairmanship of the Reception Committee. Young, in answer to this, stated that the three biggest committees were the Week, Prom, and Reception, and that it would not be fair to give two of these to the Law School; that each one of the three biggest schools should have one of them, and there was no reason why the Law School should have two and the Engineering College be left out entirely. It was pointed out that three chairmanships had been left open, Week, Play, and Tickets, of which the Law School could have two if they desired, but that it would not be fair to the chairmen already appointed at a legally constituted meeting and by fair methods of voting, that they should be removed in order that the Law School might have the position sought after.

Stewart then arose and stated that even though he had been turned down on every proposition he had made, yet the Junior Class had decided to support the other colleges in the Junior Week, regardless of who was made chairman of the Junior Prom, but that he wanted it distinctly understood that the Law Class was far from satisfied with the result, but were acquiescing for the sake of the spirit of the University.

Thanks for Cooperation.

Young, speaking for the other Junior Class presidents, said, "I would like to thank the Junior Class, through Mr. Stewart, for withdrawing from their own plans and cooperating with us to make this Junior Week the best Junior Week we have ever had."

It was agreed that the matter of rotation of the chairmanship of the Prom should be referred to the Board of Managers at their next meeting, with the recommendation that a provision be made so that no such dispute should arise again over this position.

The final decision of the meeting was that the chairmanship of Junior Week may be filled by a Law School member, if the members of the Junior Class see fit to accept it. One of the other chairmanships left open is to be filled by a member from the Teachers' College, which has no representation other than that, and the other chairmanship will probably be given to the Law School if they want it.

700 ARE TAKING PART IN G. W. ACTIVITIES

Orchestra and Chorus Being Formed—
Fencing, Basketball, and Hockey Also Popular

By FRED YOUNGMAN

Over seven hundred George Washington students are at present taking an active part in organized activities of the University, according to figures given out by the Director of Student Activities. The figures submitted show a growing tendency on the part of students to take an interest in University affairs.

This at first seems incredible, but a closer study of student organizations shows that the University provides an unusually wide range of activities for the students. In a few individual cases students participate in two or more activities, but the interest of a large majority is confined to one activity.

Basketball is the leading sport at present. There are over two hundred men and women playing on interfraternity teams and on the regular squads. It is estimated that a hundred and twenty men are playing on the teams of the Interfraternity League, forty men have reported for the regular squad, and over forty candidates have come out for the women's basketball squad.

During the past football season there were fifty-five men out for practice at different times during the season, and the larger part of them were on the regular squad.

Tennis is another leading activity in which both men and women are taking an increased interest. There have been thirty-six candidates out for men's tennis and forty-two out for women's tennis.

Fencing, swimming, and hockey are actively supported by over a hundred women, about seventy of whom are playing on the hockey squad; sixteen on the fencing team and twenty on the women's swimming team.

About thirty-five men have already reported for track practice this season, while the rifle teams with seventeen on the men's squad and twenty on the women's squad add over seventy more students to athletic activities.

The University publications also opens a wide field for student endeavor. There are forty-two active members of the Hatchet Staff, with almost as large a number on the staff of the Cherry Tree.

Men's and Women's Glee Clubs, and debating teams for both men and women, Student Council, and Law School Senate add nearly another hundred active participants in student activities.

There is also a new student organization attracting unusual interest and is receiving the support of a large number of students. A University Orchestra and University Chorus are being organized under the leadership of Robert Lawrence. This is a new innovation in George Washington, and at present has all the signs of a successful enterprise. One hundred and fifty-two students have been accepted in the chorus, while there have been forty-two entrants for the orchestra. This brief summary shows that over 10 per cent of the George Washington students take an interest in some organized activity. This does not include honorary organizations, literary societies, chemical and engineering societies, Masonic Club, and many other social bodies, or the class officers of the various colleges.

In an editorial entitled "Is Scholarship Denegating," printed in the Ursinus Weekly, the following appears: "Far worse than the liberal arts college is the technical school. There students are taught to use a slide rule, a book of tables, and nothing more. They have no interest beyond the tensile strength of steel and the breaking point of wood."

Statements of such a domineering nature are enough to arouse the indignation of anyone, especially since it is very evident that the writer hasn't the slightest conception of technical courses or else can not distinguish between a vocational and a technical school.

The Inspired Composer.

We confess to an awe-inspiring regard for the linotype man, the chap who sets the type you read in your favorite newspaper.

He has such a gay and blithesome spirit, such an easy disregard for the English language, and the feelings of the hard-working reporter.

Day by day he enriches our speech—and arouses our ire.

For example, some recent accomplishments:

"The bride carried a bouquet of sweet pins."

"The bridesmaid wore a picture hit."

"A country supper was served, including nice pie."

"They formed a new onion."

Yes, we have to hand the palm for originality to the linotype man.

A NIGHTMARE.

'Twas the night before Friday,
When all through the flat,
Not a creature was stirring,
Not even a bat.

My head o'er my books,
Was lowered with care,
In the hope that some knowledge
Might penetrate there.

When out of the stillness
A knocking there came,
And then—what an uproar.
I was o'ercome with shame.

From each nook and corner,
From window and door,
Such a raining of cards,
'Till I yelled out, "No more."

And then it was quiet,
And just like a Friek,
With a voice hoarse with anger,
A WHITE CARD did speak.

"This is your Alma Mater,
The best in the land,
In its fight for renown
Are YOU taking a hand?"

This is your football team,
Which knows not the word 'Quit,'
In its drive toward the goal,
Are YOU doing YOUR bit?

You've neglected to sign
The Activity Card,
So now you are doomed
To a trial most hard."

He shook me, he beat me,
I jumped from my chair,
And then—'twas just mother,
With her smile so rare.

—PANDORA.
P. S.—Next day I signed the Activity Card.—Thank you.
